Privacy Statement

The Club collect general Internet usage information such as your IP address, time and duration of visit to the Club website, and the features used on the website. This information is collected anonymously and is used for the purposes of analysing traffic statistics and for improving the services offered through the Club website. This information is not and will not be used by the Club to identify specific individuals.

The Club take the issue of privacy seriously and will comply to the best of its abilities with all reasonable guidelines and instructions issued by privacy bodies such as Office of the Privacy Commissioner.

Any personal information acquired by the Club will be treated in confidence and will not be disclosed to any third party without your express consent or unless the Club are legally required to provide such information to a recognised government body or agency such as the Australian Federal Police, or is compelled by a court of law with jurisdiction over the information in question, to disclose the information to a third party.

Unless you have given your consent to receive periodic newsletters, updates or other information from the Club, we will not use your contact details to provide these materials to you. If you request to receive these materials, you may also request to withdraw from any subscription list operated by the Club at any time.

The Club will not use any personal information for internal marketing purposes unless you have expressly provided your consent for your personal information to be used in this way.

The Club aim to be a responsible corporate citizen with regard to respecting the privacy of visitors to its website. We wish to gain and keep the trust of all those who legitimately and legally use our website.
